

AMATI AUTO CLINIC TRAINING

Trainees hard at work

The vocational training program is organized to be a two year program which will prepare trainees for the opportunity to take the government exam required to become a certified mechanic. The cost for trainees involves the course itself, housing and food.

Since there is much difficulty in affording the necessary cost, AMATI hopes to generate scholarships. The scholarships can be set up in six month increments allowing the trainees to have the opportunity to start the program and the incentive to complete it.

AMATI mechanics and trainees in front of the garage

If you are interested in the training program, or want to support the program through scholarships get in touch with us at +254 722 151 052 or paulamakobe@gmail.com. Applicants are welcome.